TH E good Effects of the many noble Institutions for training up Orphans, and other indigent Children, in the Knowledge and Practice of their Duty to God, and their Country, for relieving the Industrious Poor, under the accidental Calamities of Sicknefs, Lamenefs, or Lunacy, and for restraining, and if possible reclaiming the Diffolute and Debauched, together with the truly Christian Spirit of Benevolence which at this Time fo generally prevails amongst us, to the great Honour of this Age and Nation; were Inducements with feveral worthy Aldermen and Citizens of London, to establish a proper Provision for the Wives of poor Tradesmen or others a labour-

labouring under the Terrors, Pains and Hazards of Child-birth, as the only kind of Charity that appeared wanting in this Populous and Opulent City.

It cannot but greatly move our Compassion as Men, and deserve our Attention as Members of the Community, to reflect how many unhappy Women, together with their tender Infants, have for want of the timely Assistance of a Man-midwife, in difficult and uncommon Cases, and even after a safe Delivery, for want of proper Diet, Medicines and Attendance, either perished, or been deprived of the Use of their Limbs, or otherwise impaired in their Constitutions, so as to become useless to their Families and burthen some to the Public ; and how many of them are daily obliged to apply for Relief to other Hospitals for a Variety of Maladies arising from the Want of due Care and Assistance, in that perilous Time of their Lying-in, is but too well known ! And therefore it is hoped that an Institution of this Nature, calculated to support and provide for Married Women of good Character, in the last Stage of their Pregnancy, Time of Labour, and Month of Lying-in, with all suitable Helps and Necessaries, proper Diet, Advice and Medicines, will be thought a most necessary Charity, and accordingly meet with suitable Encouragement from every humane Person, especially from the Ladies, who cannot but feel, and it is hoped will gladly contribute to relieve, such imminent Distresses, so peculiar to their own Sex.
